Policy on access to our genetic and silvicultural data

Through this website (<http://base-sylviculture-genetique.fcba.fr>), you have access to metadata: description of tested FRM, the field trials and the list of all measurements on these trials. These are just a part of the information contained in our database because we also have data on individual trees with all their measures as well as various documents relating to field trials. If you are interested we can share with you some of this data but in the context of a formal agreement: consortium for a research project or specific agreement for a one-time study. Don't hesitate to contact us:
